The Sable Jestiss.

On Monday Judge McKoy, in delivering his charge to the Grand Jury elaborated the definition of an assault and battery by illustration, and in stanced the case of the outrage perpetrated by "Bill" Moore, Justice of the Peace, so-called, in causing the prisoner Snow to be taken from the jail for an unlawful purpose. Without calling names His Honor instanced the identical facts of the case.

And since we again allude to this matter in the columns of the JOURNAL we may state some additional facts which have come to our knowledge within the last few days. Moore first went to General Manning, the High Sheriff, and demanded the person of Snow, aliasJackson, for the purpose of taking him to the dead body of the negro who had been recently killed, in order to to see if the blood would flow when the body was touched by the supposed murderer, and thereby ascertain his guilt or innocence. # THE FIRE FIEND.

Terrible Disaster at Laurinburg Stores, Railroad Warehouse and 000 and $50,000.

We regret to learn of a terrib'e disaster which occurred at Laurinburg, in Richmond county, early yesterday morning, by which a large amount of valuable property was destroyed. a large part of the business portion of the town having been laid in ashes. The alarm was given at 2 o'clock and the fire was discovered emanating from Mr. C. T. Willis' store on the South side of the depot and about one hundred yards removed from it. From this building it spread to Messts. McCaskill & McLean's store and thence to Mr. Bundy's hotel and dwelling, Mr. F. D. Capps' store, Messts. Morgan & Bryant's store, and Mr. W. H. Humphery's store, all of which were destroyed, together with the warehouse of the Carolina Central Railway, ten box cars, two flat cars, and two coaches. The estimated loss is between $40,000 and $50,000, not more than half of which was covered by insurance. The only theory formed in regard to the origin of the fire is that it was incendiary. The wind was blowing from the Southwest when the fire was first discovered, but afterwards shifted to the Northwest. The citizens, both white and black, all made a valuant fight, but were unable to check the flames until the above buildings, with much of their contents, had been destroyed. Fortunately, the railroad shops, which are located at Laurinburg, and which were very near the scene of the fire, escaped destruction.—Daily Journal,
